Dear News Reporters and Agencies:

If you go to the below link you will find that the story about judicial/public official corruption, that no Monterey media had been covering, is started to be talked be about.

Quotes from the article, "Gene Forte: Vexatious Litigant or Pissed Off Citizen" at <http://legalchatmonterey.blogspot.com/>:

"It is worth wondering, why with all the big names involved with case is it being ignored by local media. Maybe it is because of all the big names involved with this case; shame on you Monterey Herald."

"It is clear from the voluminous pleadings in the file, submitted by both sides, that Forte is a formidable legal opponent who has adapted to the legal system quite well. /His pleadings are impressive in both content and quality/. Do not get me wrong, but from the file, it does NOT appear that Forte is any sort of kook, but is for real in his ability and belief."

"In response, State Attorney General Bill Lockyer and other governmental higher-ups tired to knock Forte out of the legal ring by attempting to have him declared a vexatious litigant, under California's Vexatious Litigant statues codified under Civil Code of Procedure §§391. Much to Forte's credit, a non-legal professional, self-represented average pissed-off citizen, Forte won the motion as it was heard by Hon. Judge John Golden, on June 30, 2005. The case continues."

"What is so unusual about this matter is the lack of local press coverage that this case has received. Except for the gleeful article describing the arrest and finding of Contempt that appears to be the genesis of this action, The Monterey Herald, The Salinas Californian, and local broadcast media have been all but silent about this David vs. Goliath battle. Could it be because, at least for now, David seems to be kicking some judicial butt?"

I am not connected to the site nor know who is doing it.

Obviously, the pot is starting to boil over.

Thank you.
